Dear Mr. Solomon,

On behalf of the Parents Television Council and its over 800,000 members, I am filing an indecency complaint against the WB network television program Angel. The episode that contained the indecent material originally aired at 9:00 p.m. Eastern and Pacific and 8:00 p.m. Central, on November 19, 2003. This program was seen in homes across the country on WB, and in Washington DC, the program aired on WBDC.

If the content is found to be indecent, then a Notice of Apparent Liability should be levied against each WB affiliate that aired the program.

A transcript of the indecent segment follows. I would be happy to provide you with a videotape of this episode to further demonstrate the indecency of this episode.

I look forward to your timely judgment and response.

Sincerely,

Lara Mahaney
Director of Corporate and Entertainment Affairs
Parents Television Council

ANGEL
11/19/2003

-Description-

Spike receives a package which re-corporealizes him, but when people at the firm start going crazy, Eve tells Angel and the gang that things have been thrown out of kilter because two en-souled vampires can't exist at once. A prophecy states that the champion vampire can restore order by drinking the from the cup of "Perpetual Torment," Angel and Spike battle it out for the prize. The episode features some flashbacks which tell the background story of Angel and Spike's rivalry, involving the vampire Drusilla and her relationship between the two. The prophecy turns out be some kind of ruse perpetuated by Eve, whose motives remains unclear.

Spike is on top of Harmony, their clothes are on, but his body rocks back and forth and their breathing is heavy. She tries to speak, but he tells her not to spoil the moment -- her eyes start to bleed, and suddenly she turns to her vampire self and bites his neck.

Spike walks in on Angel and Drusilla. He doesn't see it Dru at first -- only Angel's hips moving back and forth.
